SILHOUETTES

OF SALEM

FOREWORD

The annual staff of 1962 presents "silhouettes of Salem" in the hope that we may capture that elusive quality that is the Salem way of life.

Note a few characteristics of a silhouette that make it applicable to the Salem spirit. A silhouette represents not one girl, but every girl, revealing, thus, the importance of each individual in the school community. In that we are unable to discern petty flaws within it, a silhouette represents Perfection. A silhouette is our ideal, the goal for which we strive. In academics, in athletics, in every area, let each representative silhouette stand as an example for us, that we may become ideal Salem Girls.

DEDICATION

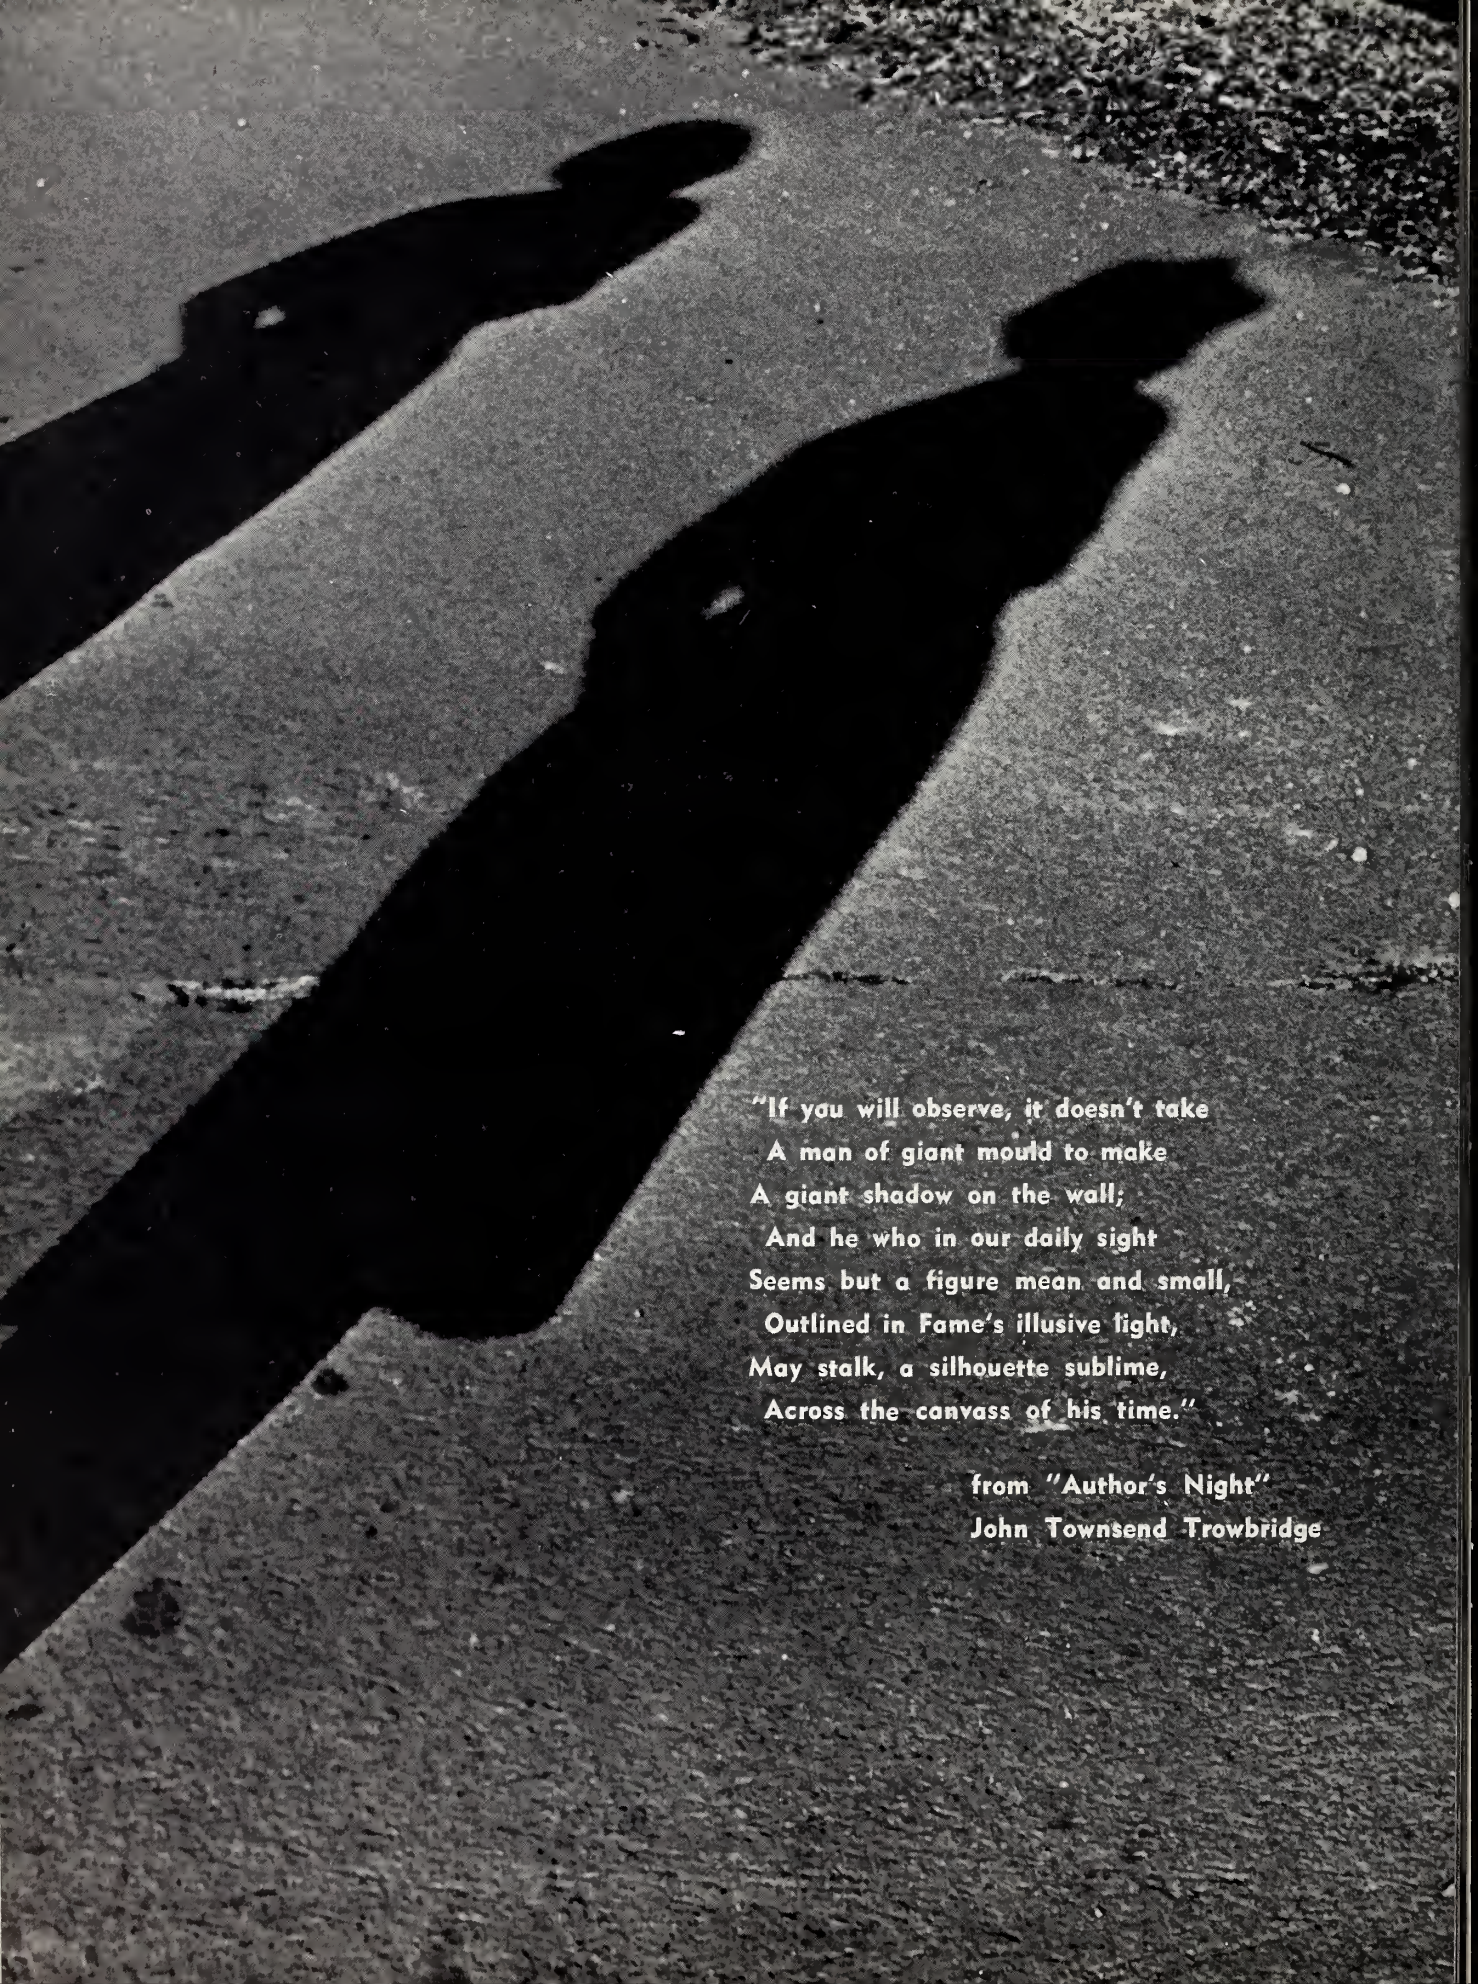

When we are asked to recall what we best remember about Miss Nunn, some of us will picture her sitting on the bleachers in the gym cheering the Academy team on to victory. Others will remember math class and Miss Nunn's rules such as "Dear Aunt Sally," guaranteed to make any math problem easier. Still others will recall the long hours she spent after school helping girls understand the mysteries of math. Finally, she will be remembered for her sense of humor that was manifested in even the most trying situation.

All of these recollections are characteristic of Miss Nunn, who is an ardent Academy fan, advisor and teacher, and a willing participator in every school activity.

To Miss Nunn we dedicate the 1962 Quill Pen in appreciation of her faithful service as advisor and friend to the students of Salem.

MISS ELSIE NUNN

"If you will observe, it doesn't take
A man of giant mould to make
A giant shadow on the wall;
And he who in our daily sight
Seems but a figure mean and small,
Outlined in Fame's illusive light,
May stalk, a silhouette sublime,
Across the canvass of his time."

SENIOR CLASS

FRANCES MASLAND
President

The Ring Banquet given by the Freshmen to the Senior Class of 1962 was the first real milestone of the opening year. Following this event the traditional senior projects began: selling blazers, the Senior Bazaar, and the slave auction. Other events long to be remembered by the Seniors were Senior Vespers, Junior-Senior, Class Day, and finally, the culminating event—graduation exercises.

From the first day of the school year until graduation, each Senior conscientiously strove to give the best of herself in both academic and dormitory life. Through Senior-Seminar, religion classes, participation in school events, and every-day living, each girl became keenly aware of her responsibility as a citizen of the school and the community.

It is hoped that the silhouettes of the class of 1962 will forever be present in the spirit of Salem Academy.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Junior Class started the year off with a bang—of the auctioneer's gavel, and one of the most successful Bake Sales ever. From that moment on everyone's extra time and effort was devoted to preparing for the long-awaited Junior-Senior. Busy Juniors rushed here and there selling Christmas cards, tip-ons, address books, Sunday morning doughnuts, note cards, and tickets for Slouch Day. The result? a wonderful dance and a memorable Junior year.

By the time the end of the year approached, the girls realized that the responsibility of being upperclassmen, which officially began when they received their blazers in the fall, was soon to be fulfilled, for their Senior year was not far off.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

"Come on y'all, buy some . . ." and "BPFSC" posters everywhere reminded us that the Sophomores were on their way to a successful year. Class spirit, such as this year's Sophomores have shown, is most important for a good year, as all Salemites know. Class spirit was shown in their promptness in taking assignments to the infirmary, rain, or shine. From the beginning of the year, they saved and saved until time for their annual Open House, presented to the Senior Class the afternoon of Junior-Senior. After this they began the regular hoarding of money for the long anticipated Junior-Senior of their Junior year. In the spring, they presented to the school a most original skit, demonstrating the talent of the class. Everyone agrees that this year's Sophomores were a very enthusiastic and original group.

FRESHMAN CLASS

This year's Freshman class has distinguished itself in its ardent school spirit and willingness to co-operate with the other students.

As members of the Service Committee the Freshmen cheered many in the infirmary by bringing their mail.

Again this year the class made a big success of the ring banquet in the fall, decorating the walls with huge gold Senior rings made of construction paper and hula hoops. Few will forget the excitement of that night.

The Freshman Carnival, an event eagerly anticipated each year by all Salemites, was held on January 27. The crowd gathered in the social room really enjoyed the carnival, particularly its main attraction, the beatnik house.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council meets regularly once a week to discuss and solve problems concerning dormitory life. It consists of a representative from each of the six halls, the President of the Council, the President of the Honor Council, two Senior counselors, and two day student representatives.

During the year the Council sponsors the Birthday Banquet, the Christmas Banquet, a Christmas Party for the servants and their children, the closing banquet, and the inspiring Spirit Fire Service at the end of the year.

Every girl at Salem is a member of the Student Government and respects the self-governing system of which she is a vital part.

HONOR COUNCIL

Honor is the most treasured yet the most intangible possession at Salem. Though intangible its presence is made real through the efforts of the Honor Council which is composed of the Honor Council president, the Student Council president, and representatives from each class and each day student group.

The Council's function is to help each student understand and fulfill the requirements set forth in our honor code, especially in regard to academic work.

The Council, in strengthening the integrity of each girl, personally, builds the integrity of the entire school.

POLLY TARWATER
President

QUILL PEN

To provide each student with a lasting and permanent memento of her year at Salem was the purpose of the 1962 Quill Pen staff. Through hard work, cooperation, and the enthusiastic help of Mrs. Hensel, the staff's sponsor, this purpose has been recognized.

From these combined efforts has come a yearbook capturing the most meaningful phases of Salem life, making it a tangible container of the intangible spirit of Salem.

WHITLEY VOGLER
Business Manager

The Ad Staff, composed chiefly of day students and headed this year by Whitley Vogler, is an important part of annual publication. This group of girls collects advertisements from both Winston-Salem and out-of-town merchants to defray publishing expenses.

With efficiency and ability the Ad Staff contributed greatly to the publication of the 1962 Quill Pen.

SCRIBBLER'S CLUB

With an eager new sponsor, Mrs. Wheeler, and an energetic new staff, the Scribbler's Club decided that it was time some changes were made.

New girls were asked to write an article or draw a picture for application for membership.

The Club revised its constitution, then began to raise the standards of the magazine. Some of the basic changes were: having Salem College print the issues, changing the name Spilled Ink to The Academe, and charging a small fee of five cents for each issue.

Members met weekly to discuss the art of good writing, to listen to advice from veteran authors such as Russell Brantley, to read and analyze submitted material, and to assemble the magazine.

The goal of The Academe is to truly reflect Salem's life and ideals. This was accomplished only through the wholehearted interest and support of the entire student body.

A roar of applause is heard from the audience; lights are turned on; and all rush up to congratulate the actresses on their performances. This is a typical end to an evening sponsored by the Dramatics Club.

At Salem the Dramatics Club is another facet which provides a girl with the opportunity to express herself. The parts in the plays are not exclusive to Dramatics Club members. Any girl who wishes to become a member may do so by acquiring an allotted number of points which she earns by stage participation or behind the scenes.

Much of the success of the Dramatics Club is due to our director, Mr. James Bray, who works untiringly until the final words are spoken, "places everybody."

Shan Pruitt, Secretary & Treasurer; Paula McClister, President.

DANCE COMMITTEE: Jady Bennett; Sue Braks; Whitley Vagler, Assistant Chairman; Kay Lambeth, Chairman; Braake Jahnsen; Margaret Bell.

SOCIAL COMMITTEES

The Social Committees of Salem are composed of the Dance Committee and the Banquet Committee. The Dance Committee plans and decorates for the school dances, carrying out its themes with striking originality. The Banquet Committee has the job of decorating the dining-room for the Father-Daughter banquet in November and the Birthday banquet held during late winter. As a result of this committee's work the dining-room is transformed into a fairy-land for each banquet.

Due to careful planning and direction by both groups each social event at Salem has been very successful this year.

COMMUNITY AND WORLD

SERVICE COMMITTEE

MOLLY BRANDON and RENA PENN,
Co-chairmen.

The Community and World Service Committee, which is composed of representatives from each hall and the day student group, gives an opportunity to each Salemite to help those less fortunate than herself.

This year the Community and World Service Committee combined with the Red Cross in order that together more work could be done for the community. Through the varied duties of the Committee, many different groups are helped. The donations which are given by the student body pay the educational expenses of several girls at Colegio Morava, the Moravian school in Nicaragua. In addition the Committee sponsors an Italian foster child, Daniela Proietti, who writes us heartwarming letters.

Do you like to sing? If so, you are among the many who join the Salem Academy Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Burroughs. The Glee Club meets for forty-five minutes on Wednesday and for ninety minutes on Friday. During these meetings each girl learns to make the best use of her voice through extensive drill and practice. Often the girls are divided into three groups according to the parts they sing, in order to become proficient in the songs they are to perform. Under Mrs. Burroughs' expert supervision each girl gains knowledge of the world of music.

The first occasion for excitement for the Glee Club members was the Father-Daughter banquet, held the Wednesday night before Thanksgiving, during which the girls sang to a most appreciative audience.

Their hard work and concentration brought forth two Christmas programs, one for Adelaide's church to thank her for her faithful service and one for parents and faculty which really put everyone in a Christmas spirit.

Hard work still continued after Christmas for a program for the Mother-Daughter Tea held in the spring.

Excitement rose to its highest point as the girls prepared for a joint concert with Asheville School.

The Glee Club's final performance was held at Commencement Vespers, which crowned an eventful and successful year.

LIBRARIANS: Barbara Harrell, Mally Roper, Parker Farbes, Head Librarian.

SPIRITUAL LIFE COUNCIL

Salem's Spiritual Life Council strives to enrich the lives of the students through morning devotions, Friday night devotions, Sunday vespers, and Religious Emphasis Days. These services are given by the faculty, students, and guest speakers. This year the speaker for Religious Emphasis Days was Dr. W. Kenneth Goodson from Centenary Methodist Church in Winston-Salem. With the aid of Miss Wheeler, Adelaide Reece, and the other girls on the Council, this organization is successful in promoting Christian living at Salem.

ATHLETICS

A warm fall day— and a game of tennis.

"Ready, aim, fire!"

ATHLETIC

At Salem every girl is a member of one of our athletic teams, Gold and Purple. In September a picnic is held at which new girls are chosen for either team by the Purple and Gold captains. After the new members have been selected, the traditional tug-of-war takes place. A legend has grown up that the team winning this contest will win the silver cup at the end of the year, but this has not always proven true.

A girl may win points for her team (the team earning the most points wins the cup)

"Make that goal!"

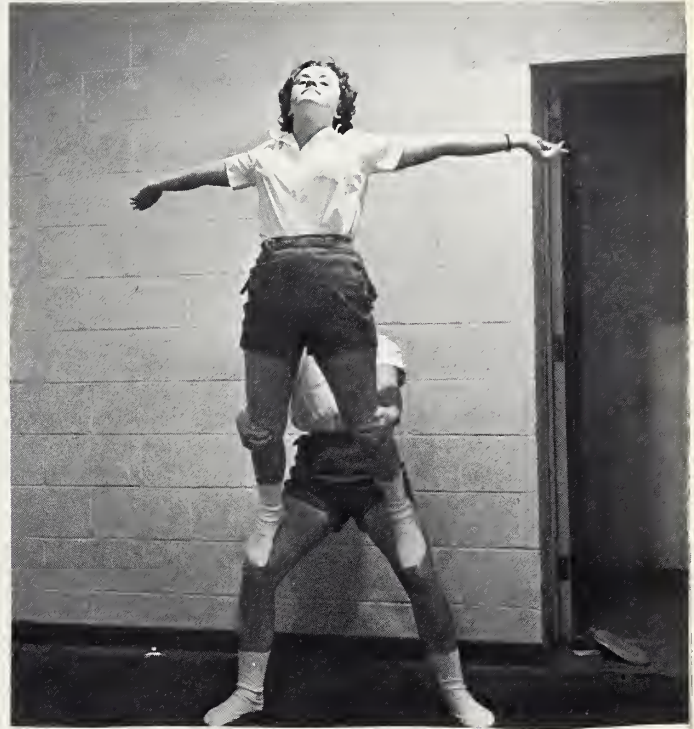

GOLD CHEERLEADERS

Fast action on the basketball court!

These tumblers possess skill and balance.

Salem's answer to the New York Yankees.

PURPLE CHEERLEADERS

CAROLYN MEARES, Head of Golds, and CAROLINE WILSON, Head of Purples.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The Athletic Council is composed of the heads of the Gold and Purple teams and the leaders of the different sports which include soccer, hockey, basketball, softball, and others. The Council sponsors intramurals for the different activities and also a tournament between the two teams as a climax to a sport's season. The Council also sponsors a banquet each semester at which awards are given for outstanding performance in a particular sport.

The aim of the athletic program at Salem is to promote good sportsmanship and active school spirit. This goal is reached with the help of Miss Owens and every student's good will and participation.

HONORS

HONOR GRADUATES

Josephine Northup and Sue Justice, the two seniors with the highest scholastic average in the Class of 1962, have been chosen as this year's Honor Graduates. In recognition of the outstanding work which they have done to merit this award, their names are inscribed in gold on the wood plaques in the social room.

ACADEMIC COMMENCEMENT MARSHALS

One of the highest honors which an underclassman may receive at Salem Academy is that of Academic Commencement Marshal. These seven outstanding girls are chosen by the senior class on the basis of school spirit, academic standing, citizenship, service, and poise. The duties of this group include serving at the Senior-Faculty breakfast given in the spring, and most important, acting as marshals for the seniors at the graduation exercises.

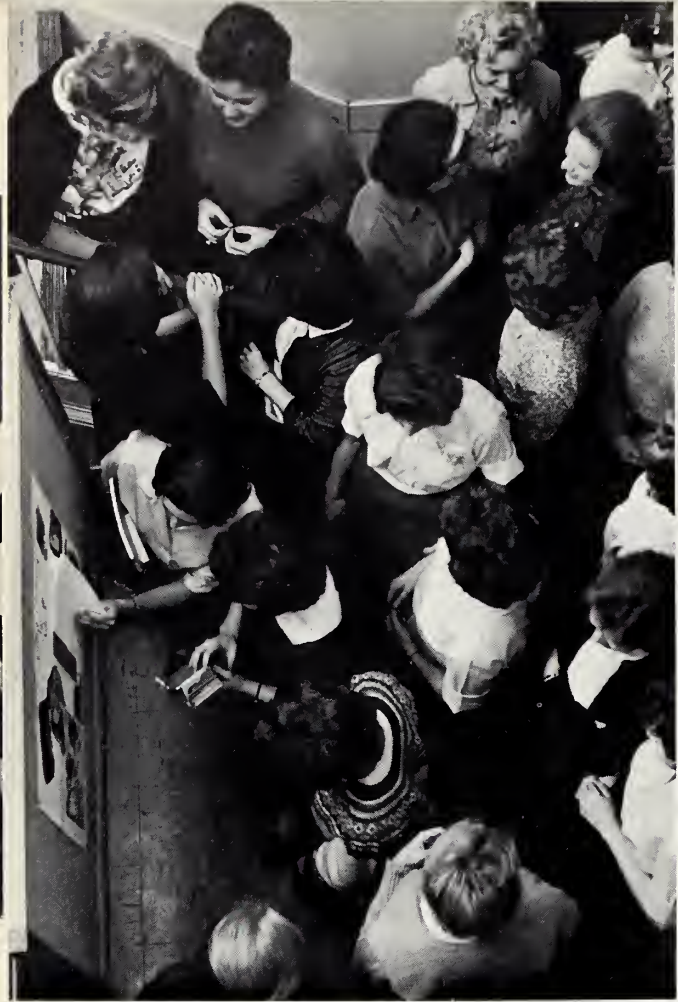

BEAUTY QUEEN

BONNIE DAVIS

For 1962 Bonnie Davis has been chosen as our Beauty Queen. Each year the sophomore class holds a poll for the election of the queen in which the entire student body votes. Announcement of the winner and the runners-up, who were Rena Penn, Paula Henry, and Lee Slawter, was made at the Sophomore Open House in February.

ACTIVITIES

Bird's eye view of the chow line.

Business transactions of the Senior Bozor in November.

In January the Boys' Choir of the Episcopal Church in High Point gave the program for Sunday evening vespers.

A scene from Catherine Parr, one of the three oct plays presented in November by the Dramatics Club.

Before Christmas Senior Vespers were held during which a love feast was participated in, followed by the impressive candle service.

This year the juniors elected these four girls as servers of Junior-Senior: Anno Roglund, Muffet Lovidge, Shon Pruitt, and Suson Wright.

Studio art classes conducted by Miss Wheeler are one vital phase of Solem's cultural activities.

The weekly trudge between the laundry and school.

Dr. Kenneth Goodson holds an evening discussion with students during Religious Emphasis Days.

Members of the Standards Committee meet in the reception room. Jane Warrick, Co-chairman, Lee Slawter, Co-chairman, Martha Glenn, Bonnie Davis, Rena Penn, Sarah Stowers, Martha Thompson.

To keep things running smoothly is the task that Adelaide McCain has performed so well for many years at Salem.

At Salem progress is our most important product.

SENIORS

SENIOR ACTIVITIES

An honor that certain underclassmen may gain is that of being chosen as a senior's personal marshal. Each member of the graduating class selects one of the underclassmen early in the year.

A marshal assists in getting ready for the Class Day picture and the Junior-Senior dance.

Though the duties of a marshal are few, the office of marshal is important, for it draws the underclassmen and seniors together in closer friendship.
